

Personal Note

Date: 16 August 2026

Sometimes I feel like I don't want to talk to anyone or maintain contact with anyone because I feel completely drained by people, as though they are taking away whatever energy I have left.

I have tried several times to create distance. I even tried making you angry by saying things I knew could upset you. I noticed that religion was something that could trigger you or make you angry, so I deliberately used that at times.

But you still never blocked me.

I feel terrible whenever I do this, because I know that intentionally trying to hurt or anger someone is not right. But at the same time, I feel like I don't have another way to create the distance I want.

I also don't want anyone to feel guilty for leaving me or feel responsible for my feelings. I sometimes try to make myself appear like the wrong or bad person so that the other person can block me or cut contact without feeling guilty about doing it.

This isn't necessarily because I hate anyone or want to hurt anyone. Sometimes I simply feel that I need complete distance from people, and I don't know how to ask for that without making the other person feel responsible or guilty.

I hope you understand what I am trying to say.